Computers Improve Healthcare for those with Special Needs

Sharing information related to health issues has always been one of the greatest challenges for Bolivian healthcare, especially as the difficult terrain makes for tough travel to rural areas. With the use of modern IT, patient care is improved in remote areas by providing immediate and direct access to a person's medical history and their treatment options online. Global Links raises funds to send 1 desktop and 2 laptops with every shipment sent to Bolivia, impacting hundreds of patients every year.

Nurses from Villa Rivero in Bolivia shared, "We are receiving computers for our program for patients with special needs. After 5 years [of doing] everything in a notebook, now we have better control to provide faster care."
